

The Royal Society of Biology Research Dissemination Committee

Research Communication Newsletter

April 2019

Top story(ies)

Open access: 'no evidence' that zero embargo periods harm publishers

Debate around embargo periods heightens as Plan S deadline draws near

Publication policy and debate

UK Publishing: An economic powerhouse

Self-organising peer review for preprints – A future paradigm for scholarly publishing

Editing is at the Heart of Scholarly Publishing

Transformative Agreements: A Primer

Researcher to Reader \(R2R\) Debate: Is Sci-Hub Good or Bad for Scholarly Communication?

Guest Post — Rob Johnson on Shifting Relationship Dynamics and Imbalances in an Open Access World

Most European universities failing to monitor open access costs

Survey finds that European institutions have open access policies in place – but far fewer have specific targets systems to check their progress

How the open access model hurts academics in poorer countries

Open data

Powering Up: How the Research Data Alliance Is Making Open Research a Reality

International publishing

Norway and Elsevier Agree on Pilot National Licence for Research Access and Publishing

Cambridge University Press reaches major Open Access agreement in Germany

The First Read and Publish Deal with California: An Interview with Cambridge University Press

Open Access Publishing: New Evidence on Faculty Attitudes and Behaviors

Metrics

Are altmetrics able to measure societal impact in a similar way to peer review?

Publication ethics

Balkans lead drive to criminalise academic misconduct

Montenegro becomes one of the first countries to outlaw not only plagiarism, but also donation of authorship and fabrication of research results

Click here to unsubscribe from this publication

Or, manage your subscription to this and to other RSB publications by logging into mySociety and choosing 'My Subscriptions' under 'Me and the RSB'.

Royal Society of Biology

Science Policy Team
Charles Darwin House
12 Roger Street
London
WC1N 2JU
policy@rsb.org.uk

Please note that any views or opinions presented in this email are solely those of the author and do not necessarily represent those of the Royal Society of Biology.